- Due: by 4:00 pm, last Wednesday in February (late applications will not be considered)

Note to applicant: This essay must be computer generated.

Eric thoroughly enjoyed his travel experiences. This scholarship is intended to memorialize Eric and to promote the excitement and adventure of travel. Knowing that travel can fully influence a person, Eric's family wishes to encourage this experience.

Please address how you view the importance of travel by completing one of the following topics:

Essay questions:

1. One of Eric's most memorable characteristics was his ability to connect, befriend and maintain contact with people of all cultural and socioeconomic backgrounds. How do you believe that diverse travels and adventures can influence YOUR personality to connect more openly with others?
2. Although Eric's life was cut short, one of his "bucket list" items was to mentor high-school age students interested in international entrepreneurship. His idea conceptualized an organization that would sponsor local entrepreneurship clubs, based on the principles of "think-tank" or "business incubation" centers. Assuming you were to organize and promote a pilot chapter at your school or in your community, how would you encourage cultural diversity and participation?
3. Pending: Of the many stories you will hear of Eric's life and how he touched others, which one stands out to you as inspiration to lead a life of travel and adventure? (The Mies family will provide a packet with info about Eric, including stories). This component is not completed yet.

Thank you for your interest. Please contact the ACCF if you have questions.
